The Department of Language & Literacy Education is seeking qualified candidates to serve as a Graduate Academic Advisor (GAA) for the 2024-25 academic year.

Position Title: Graduate Academic Advisor (GAA) for LLED’s Arts-based Educational Research (ABER) Group
Position Type: Graduate Academic Assistant (GAA)
Period: September 01, 2024 – April 30, 2025
Hours: Approximately 5hrs/week, depending on the time of year
Salary: $4,200 per period
Number of Positions: 2

The role of this LLED GAA (or pair of two students) is to both (1) assist with facilitating the LLED’s Arts-based Educational Research (ABER) group’s ongoing activities, (2) assist with organizing an event to celebrate arts-based work happening in the department, as well as (3) engage in some to-be-determined early work to establish this group; for example, this might include digital archival and compilation work to gather, organize, and house LLED-produced ABER scholarship in an online space. As such, this GAA or GAA team will have the opportunity consult and collaborate with Dr. George Belliveau, Dr. Kedrick James, Dr. Harini Rajagopal and Dr. Amber Moore regarding the details of this assignment.

Qualifications
- Full time PhD students (any year)
- Interest in arts-based educational research
- Interest and energy to work with a diverse, interdisciplinary group of MEd, MA, and PhD students and faculty members from both LLED and outside departments and faculties.
- Demonstrated interest in gaining leadership experience in the Department and Faculty

Eligibility
The GAA (Graduate Academic Assistant) position open to international and domestic students.
